

Engaging Natural Supports & Community Resources

We Connect Families of Teens and Young Adults with Autism & IDD to Community Support

The transition from school to adult life is a significant journey. At We Will Walk With You, we believe this path shouldn't be a "cliff"—it should be a navigable passage supported by a reliable community.

We are ready to proactively engage with families across our region to help you build a life that feels good from the inside, not just one that looks successful from the outside.

Our "Walking With You" Approach

We offer Life-on-Life Navigation. Rather than just providing paperwork or managing a program, we come alongside your family to:

- Focus on the Whole Family: We look at the health of the entire "climbing party," ensuring both the youth and their caregivers are supported.
- Prioritize Quality of Life: We move beyond "checking boxes" to focus on what truly matters: belonging, confidence, and emotional well-being.
- Build Community Connections: We rely heavily on our social network and peer agencies to create robust, natural systems of support.

Home & Community Based Support for Everyone

Our perspective is rooted in Home & Community Based Supports. We are intentionally agnostic regarding whether a family has Medicaid or other specific entitlements. Our goal is to resource and equip every family, regardless of their current benefit status, by tapping into the natural supports available within our community.

Tools for Your Journey

We provide a range of resources designed to equip you for the road ahead:

- Wayfinder Speaker Series: Join us for expert-led sessions designed to provide actionable insights for families navigating the transition to adulthood.
- LEAQ-Y (Youth) Assessment: A common-sense tool that measures "Vital Signs" like connection, purpose, and capability to help you identify strengths and areas of friction.
- The Waystation Newsletter: Our monthly publication featuring real-world perspectives on quality of life and updates on community resources.
